

FASHION & JEWELLERY

JOHN FLUEVOG has, since 1970, created unique footwear that's been worn by Madonna, the Scissor Sisters and models on the runways of high fashion. His company was recently named one of the world's most innovative by Fast Company.

BEVERLEY GORENSTEIN launched her Moulé clothing line in the mid '80s from her dining room table in Winnipeg. Along with three of her children—Laurie, Rachel and Michael Gorenstein—she's now the owner of four Moulé boutiques in Canada and the U.S.

CATHERINE REGEHR designs elegant gowns that have been worn by Kim Basinger, Sarah McLachlan, Anjelica Huston and Bianca Jagger.

LANDSCAPE

JIM HOLE is the owner of the St. Albert, Alberta-based Hole's Greenhouses and Gardens, and can be heard regularly on CBC radio and seen during the growing season on City TV's Breakfast Television.

RON RULE is one of Canada's leading garden historians and designers, and founder and director of the UBC Certificate in Garden Design program. He's led 14 garden tours of Europe and has lectured throughout North America.

TED McLACHLAN is a professor at the University of Manitoba and a member of the editorial boards of Landscapes/Paysages and Manitoba Gardener.

GREEN

JOHN BROWN, professor of architecture at the University of Calgary and principal at Housebrand architecture, is also a co-founder of Slow Home, the international movement advocating for increased design quality in North America's housing market.

SHELLEY PENNER is a director at Vancouver's sustainable interiors firm Penner & Associates Interior Design. She also serves as president of the firm's P+A furniture.

SADHU JOHNSTON was widely credited with transforming Chicago's ecological footprint when he served as the city's environment czar. He's now the deputy city manager of Vancouver.

THOMAS MUELLER is president and CEO and a founding director of the Canada Green Building Council. He also participates on other boards and advisory groups supporting green initiatives.
